1. (a) The report suggests that the initiative has gained attention within Ireland and also from parents' associations abroad. Ireland's health minister wants Ireland to be the world leader in keeping children away from the digital world until they are ready.
- (b) (ii) It allows parents to present the code as a school rule, thereby shifting the responsibility away from themselves.
- (c) The impact of the code has been immediate for some parents, as it provides them with support and makes it easier to say no when they know that a significant majority of the class agrees with the restriction.
- (d) The earlier policy had failed because either the children actively used the devices at home or their friends had access to smartphones and this kept the school students exposed to the devices and social media indirectly.
- (e) False
- (f) (i) social media platforms
- (g) The children have surprisingly shown positive responses:
- (i) Some children accept the pact and understand the reasons behind the ban on smartphones.
- (ii) Others express their desire for smartphones and the ability to connect with friends. However, they also acknowledge the potential risks and addiction associated with smartphone usage.
- (h) (iv) standard
2. (a) (iv) The world should pool in efforts to limit warming to 1.5°C above pre-industrial levels.
- (b) (ii) Both the assertion and reason are true, but the reason is not the correct explanation of the assertion.
- (c) consensus
- (d) IPCC's modelling has concluded that the threshold beyond which the climate crisis becomes irreversible could be breached by the first half of the 2030s. Mitigation efforts currently underway need fast-tracking to avert cataclysmic climate outcomes.
- (e) (ii) accelerate
- (f) Once the breach occurs, there is no going back for the world which will then push it towards its own destruction.
- (g) ... to lay out the science behind the climate emergency and suggest pathways to mitigate it.
- (h) ... have proved that the pace of increase in GHG emissions has come down in the past five years.
- (i) Events like Pakistan floods, Hurricane Ian in the US, heat waves and wildfires in North America, Australia, and parts of Europe, the unpredictability of the monsoon in India, and the challenges faced by small island nations are proof enough that climate change is here to stay.

Dear Sir

Subject: Complaint against Order No. XP 865/23

This is with reference to the Order No. XP 865/23 placed on July 14, 20XX which consists of office stationery and business cards. As per the agreement, we were hoping to receive the order latest by July 20, 20XX.

First of all, the order did not reach in time. Also, the quality of the paper in ledgers, notepads and bill books is questionable and the design of the business cards does not match with the selected one. We are facing a lot of inconvenience due to this.

Kindly ensure that the order will be replaced latest by 10 August, 20XX, failing which payment will be stopped or the order will be cancelled from our end. You are requested to look into the matter on an urgent basis.

Yours faithfully

Dear Sir

Subject: Skyrocketing prices of essential commodities

The plight of the common man is pitiable because of the skyrocketing prices of essential commodities. The rates of vegetables like tomatoes at ₹ 200/kg are vying with lentils in the same range. Most vegetables, fruits and cooking oils are already on an upswing. Cooking gas is so expensive that one wonders why would the poor not go back to coal and wood. Every few days, the prices of milk go up. The poor and the middle class don't know what to spend their money on. Two decent meals are hard to be arranged.

The prices of petrol and diesel have touched a new high in recent months which seems to have triggered this hike. People are compelled to cut down their expenditure on all essential food items to make ends meet.

The government must take some stringent measures to control the rising prices and black marketing by releasing buffer stocks so that the common man does not suffer.

Yours faithfully

Deepti

5. (A) Economic Growth and E-Waste

E-waste garbage list includes gadgets like smartphones, tablets, laptops, video game consoles, cameras, computers, TVs, stereos, copiers, fax machines, etc. The graph shows that the generation of electronic waste has grown exponentially between 2017-2020 going from 5000000 tonnes to 35000000 tonnes. However, the years between 2005 and 2015 registered static growth in this sector. But the last five years have seen e-waste generation jump 7 times. The metropolitan cities of Mumbai, Delhi-NCR region, Bengaluru, and Chennai are the biggest contributors of e-waste. With 2 million tons of e-waste generated annually, e-waste recycling is a source of income for many in India, but it also poses numerous health and environmental risks.

(B) The Shrinking Indian Middle Class

According to economists, employment levels had risen before Covid impacted our economy. Health, nutrition, and educational outcomes showed a significant decline. The global recession in 2020 has impacted our economy battering the poor into acute distress. A year into the pandemic, this number is estimated to be 67 million. The number of very poor will reach 75 million, more than double the figures expected prior to the recession caused by Covid-19. 75 million people will be living at less than $2/day. Inflation needs to be controlled, PDS revived, jobs generated, soft loans, and social support doled out if India wishes to save itself from a serious economic slide.

6. (A) (a) Ebright lost interest in collecting the butterflies because it was a tedious job with less feedback.
(b) (ii) He was studying butterfly migrations along with Dr Urquhart.
(c) The phrase is used ironically as Ebright had read about the migration of butterflies to central America and here they did not go far beyond seventy-five miles.

- (B) (a) (iii) option 3 and 4 only
(b) Anne felt that these were her own views and she would never like anyone to read her views and as such that won't matter to anyone.
(c) depressed
(d) ... the diary would patiently listen to whatever she said.
7. (A) (a) the word 'Amanda' has been repeated.
(b) (i) emphasis
(c) FALSE
(d) The poet focuses on the struggle that Amanda is facing. The poet strongly believes that children should never be deprived of their freedom.

Or

- (B) (a) The poem does not follow a set rhyme or meter. The poet has used enjambment and free verse.
- (b) Synecdoche is a poetic device that uses a part to represent the whole. Frost has used “heart” to represent his personality as a whole that underwent a change in mood and attitude after a chance encounter with an ordinary crow.
- (c) (ii) 2, 4, and 6
- (d) The poet has used the repetition of sounds or consonance for rhythmic effect: ‘m’ in ‘From a hemlock tree’ and ‘d’ in the last line. Alliterative sounds ‘h’ in ‘Has given my heart’ and ‘s’ in ‘And saved some part’ are used for a musical effect.
8. (a) The poet describes the bear in a humorous way. He says that as soon as a bear sees a human being, it hugs him tightly. It clasps its prey tightly with both its hands and squeezes him to death. If he is still alive, he gives him another tight hug to kill him.
- (b) From the window, Valli saw a cow running in the middle of the road and was highly amused. She found happiness, joy, and life in this. On her ride back home, she saw the same cow dead and lying in a pool of blood. Death changed Valli’s mood; she was upset and suddenly everything lost its charm and beauty.
- (c) No, Chubukov is not sincere in saying so. He didn’t have a good opinion about Lomov. He thought that he had come there to ask for some money. He changed his stand only when he came to know that Lomov wanted to marry Natalya, his daughter. It was something that Chubukov always wanted in his heart of hearts.
- (d) Custard was making a lot of clatter and clinkering and he was squirming. He jumped up, snorting and clashing his tail. He attacked the pirate. It terrified the pirate. He fired at Custard and missed. Custard killed him by swallowing him up. It shows that he was brave.
- (e) On both sides of the gravel road were acres and acres of neatly pruned tea bushes spread like a sea against the backdrop of densely wooded hills. It was the second sprouting period. Women wearing plastic aprons were plucking new tea leaves and putting them in the bamboo baskets.
9. (a) Animals do not need silk clothes, playful toys, and various utensils to stay happy. But Mrs. Pumphrey had provided these privileges to her pet, Tricki. These luxuries replaced the dog’s actual needs for exercise, play, and healthy food and made him ill, obese, and dull because his owner pampered him like a child. So, it’s true that ‘Privilege often confuses actual needs for perceived ones.’
- (b) Hari Singh had robbed all kinds of people. According to him, the greedy men were scared of being robbed. The rich men showed anger. The poor men accepted their fate after being robbed. He thought that Anil would show only a touch of sadness. He would not be sad for the loss of money but for the loss of trust.
- (c) Noodle used titles to describe Think-Tank like ‘O Great and Mighty Think-Tank’, ‘Ruler of Mars and her two moons’, ‘most powerful and intelligent creature in the whole universes’.
10. (A) It has been rightly said that love for freedom is the natural instinct every living being has. Everyone loves their liberty and does not want their wings to be clipped or their space cramped. Just like the humans, Leslie Norris’ tiger is also longing for his expansive life. Caged against his will, he is so bored and resigned to his fate that he even ignores the visitors. Humans also wish to own their lives. Amanda, a young teenage girl, yearns for her privacy. She wants to be left alone so that she could do whatever she wants to without any interference from her parents. Amanda wants to be free from the constant nagging. Both the tiger in the zoo and Amanda are caged and sulking.

- (B) Belinda's pet dragon though ferocious in looks believed he was a coward at heart, it seemed. In comparison, the other pets boasted of their bravery, and their ability to chase lions, while the dragon just whimpered for a safe cage to hide in. The appearance of a pirate brought forth the dragon's true worth for while the other creatures scuttled off to hide, ironically, the dragon measured up to the pirate's threats by snorting at him, clattering his steely tail, and finally, gobbling him up.

Lencho, who had requested no less than God to help him after the hailstorm was given seventy pesos in a letter. Ironically, Lencho accused the post office employees of cheating him of thirty pesos oblivious to the fact that the staff of the post office had collected the money at the behest of the postmaster who wished to keep Lencho's faith in God.

11. (A) Richard Ebright, first and foremost, was a scientist. He was interested in science so he first began to collect butterflies. But he found time for other interests too. He was a man of many parts — a multifaceted genius. Not only did he collect butterflies but also took a deep interest in varied activities. He collected rocks, fossils, and coins. He became an eager astronomer too and would indulge in star-gazing sometimes all night. Ebright also became a champion debater and public speaker. In this field, his Social Studies teacher turned Ebright's tremendous energy towards the Debating and Model United Nations Clubs. He was a good canoeist and all-around outdoors person. He was also an expert photographer. He excelled in nature and scientific exhibits. To conclude, besides being a remarkable scientist, Richard Ebright enjoyed myriad adventures, hobbies, and interests that made him a wholesome personality.

- (B) Bholi was sent to school because with her ugly face and lack of intelligence, she had little chance of getting a match. "Let the teachers at school worry about her," said her mother. Bholi was unwilling to go because she thought that she was being sold and turned out of the house like their cow, Lakshmi. She was given clean clothes to wear for the first time. Her visit to school proved a turning point in her life. Her teacher worked on her like a sculptor. She spoke to her lovingly and sweetly in her soft, soothing voice. She consoled and encouraged her to speak without a stammer. She raised in her the hope of a new and respectable life. Education and the teacher's efforts produced wonderful results. Bholi's teacher played the role of a catalyst in her transformation. She made her a confident, bold and self-respecting person. From a 'simpleton,' she became an enlightened girl.
